

CURLING CLUB GIVE
OLD TIME DANCE

"OLD-TIMERS" ARE NOT SO OLD
WHEN OLD FASHIONED
DANCE CALLED!

Many were the reminiscences of the early days in Wainwright brought to mind at the "Old-Time Dance" which the Curling club staged last week in the new garage of Mayor Forster on Main street; and a more pleasant social time could not possibly have been arranged.

To the merry tunes of the old-time fiddlers, Messrs Murray (half a dozen of 'em) and "Rastus" Jensen, all and sundry, young as well as old, went through the mazes of the older (and really more graceful) dances, and in addition by all with a rest and a view which well proved that "we are only as old as we feel!"

Mr Jim Ford (we nearly said "Old Jim") and Mr Bill Gano sang some lively "calls" for those and a "merry" dance they proved in lots of instances just for good measure Miss Nellie Gifford danced the "Highland fling" in splendid fashion which brought applause to make the rafters ring!

At midnight a supper was served which was fully in keeping with the generous exertion as proved for some of the older and more robust of the crowd, the club members themselves providing excellent waiters for the dispensing of the good things.

It sure was "one fine night" and many a memory stayed back ten, fifteen or twenty years to the time when Wainwright made merry in a big barn here or a large kitchen there, at all "concomers" and farmers alike with their respective ladies—looked upon those gatherings as a real social time for all, rather than the prevailing shuffling to modern jazz which seems to some of us graybeards what dances prove to be nowadays.

Let's have another of these "old-time" Messrs Curling Club; they seem good for the old man's system!

"Times are just right; if they were any better there would be no work for the old-time collectors. Yes, times are just right, for you to put on your steam sled and haul your coal before it gets too cold. You will find a good supply of both at the Atlas yard. Joe Welch, mgr.

ST LUKE'S DRAMATIC CLUB PRESENT PLAY

PRODUCE "SHE STOOPS TO CON-QUER" TO IRMA AUDIENCE
LAST WEEK

On Friday evening last, the St Luke's Dramatic Club, the members of which have been busy for some time on the production of Goldsmith's farce comedy "She Stoops to Conquer" presented this offering to Irma pa-troona.

Although the weather man went on record for more rigor that evening than he has shown for many years, the troupe honored their engagement, and fortunately made the journey by auto without any worse mishaps than a few near-frozen toes, etc.

As was to be expected on such a night the hall there was by no means packed, but the audience present was a truly appreciative one, and in spite of the many drawbacks, and the lack of equipment in the new theatre, the cause all gave an excellent representation of their individual roles in this delightful old English drama.

Tomorrow evening (Thursday) these players will present this offering to the public of Wainwright at the theatre, and we understand that they are leaving no stone unturned to turn in their audience with an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

LOCAL NOTES

We learn that Forster and Co. are arranging for a big public demonstration of the new outstanding Chevrolet car in the theatre at some future date, when experts will describe the new beauty "from stem to gudgeon;" "They will have a carload of cars here in a week or two for inspection.

LLOYD PLEAS
WITH "SPEEDY"

FAVORABLY RECEIVED BY AUDIENCE
WHICH PRAISE LATEST PRODUCTION

Harold Lloyd comes to the theatre this week and in his latest Paramount release "Speedy" and it may be well recorded that the bespectacled comedian has succeeded again in surpassing his previous offering. As typical of all Harold Lloyd productions, entirely new and highly humorous situations and "gags" have been injected on which serve to stamp the comedies as the greatest in motion pictures to-day and for some time to come for that matter.

"Speedy" is everything the name implies. It is a fast moving story, which keeps the patron sitting on edge every minute. To the dyslexic the word movie fan he may assume there is nothing new left in movie craft, that would serve to smack of the novelty, but in "Speedy" that fan is due for a most welcome surprise. Harold has fairly outdone himself along these lines.

The subject around which Harold has built his plot in his new comedy is an old antiquated horse drawn street car. In this day and age that in itself is novel enough but the horse car is only the beginning of things. More novelty is due when we are driving the car through one of the busiest streets of New York and more still when he is seen as a driver of a taxi and further in the Coney Island sequences.

It appears that Harold has chosen another star to be, with Ann Christy as new leading lady. The comedy opposite the comedian is most inspiring. All in all, the latest Lloyd comedy is sure to please the most discriminate film fan, and although but a few of the high-lights have been touched here it suffices to say that anyone who misses Harold in "Speedy" will have passed up a rare treat.

RURAL EDUCATION

Copies of a pamphlet entitled "Rural Education in Alberta" have recently been sent out from the office of Hon. Forster Baker, Minister of Education, to each rural school board and teacher in the province and to the locals of other rural organizations interested in educational matters. This contains an outline of the changes in the school system to be introduced to the Legislature at the coming session. Additional copies of this publication may be secured at any time from the Department of Education.

Enthusiastic Gathering At Annual Town's Meeting

SPELNDID FINANCIAL REPORT OF TOWN'S AFFAIRS, SUBJECT OF MOST FAVORABLE COMMENT; TOWN'S PART AND FUTURE IMPROVEMENTS ALL COMMENDED. SCHOOL BOARD ALSO GIVES HIGHLY EFFICIENT REPORT OF YEAR'S WORKINGS. BOTH BODIES SAVING MONEY. ALL DOWN THE LINE & CITIZENS ALL SATISFIED

There was possibly several excuses for the non-attendance of the general public at the annual Town's meeting which took place on Friday last, in the Council chamber, but what the sparse attendance lacked in numbers was well made up in enthusiasm at the splendid reports which the workings of the Town Council and the School Board during the past year had made possible, and which reports conclusively proved that both bodies are practically leading the whole province of Alberta as to solid financial standing and efficiency.

The early part may be that despite the opportunity given in this manner for the would-be knocker to air his or her views, those unable (and they are to be found in every town and city) still remain away from these gatherings and continue on their own sweet way without any knowledge of the facts as they are; and as they are shown to be by the very full reports which our elected bodies present at each of these annual meetings!

The chair for the first portion of the proceedings was occupied by Mayor M. L. Forster, and in opening the meeting he presented the following very lucid report of his stewardship for the past year:

Fellow Citizens:—This being the statutory meeting for us, your elected servants, to give an account of our stewardship for the past year, before entering into a resume of our past actions, I wish to thank the electors for the honor they have placed on me for the past two years and I feel that that trust has not been betrayed by either myself or my colleagues who have rendered me excellent service during my administration. Perhaps mistakes have been made; but they have been of the head and not of the heart.

In entering into a brief resume generally, I do not intend to rob the several prospective chairmen of committees of their material by entering into detail, but I must say that I feel proud of the showing given you in the statement of the Auditors which will be fully presented to you by the Chairman of the Finance Committee.

The progress made by the P. W. Committee is indeed commendable as is shown by the vast improvements in our streets and sidewalks.

The electric committee under Councilor Huntingford's supervision (by which the Calgary Power Co. by the votes of the majority of the burgesses have assumed the plant), was formerly operated by the town, and I feel that every justification should be given the Council for the course pursued by them in that direction under the guidance of so able a chairman.

I refer to the water and sewage project which I feel satisfied by careful study of the interests of the ratepayers when carried to a successful issue will be the means of not only benefiting the present population but will be an incentive for inducing numbers to settle here and make this one of the best served towns for its population in Alberta.

The town planning scheme should be gone into thoroughly, whereby our streets will soon become avenues of beauty.

I have been disappointed that our plan of leasing of lands, which has been effectively carried out but owing to the large range for stock immediately surrounding us it makes it a very difficult matter to carry out the provisions of the existing by-law, the infraction of which, at times, becomes most annoying.

There are several matters to which I could refer but no doubt these will be touched on by the several councillors in their reports.

HOCKEY GAME AT THE LOCAL RINK

NEILBURG STICK-HANDLERS
GIVES TOWN BOYS REAL
ANXIOUS TIME

Only a fair attendance lined the rink sides last Thursday when the hockey team journeyed up from Neilburg to try conclusions against the local ice artists, and although their last visit here was disastrous to the visitors, the score board on this occasion has a vastly different reading.

The opening bell had only just tinkled when Lepper rushed through and scored and this was followed by Good now making a solo shot and scoring for Neilburg. Only a minute or two later the same player rushed and shot and although Alexander blocked he failed to clear, and Candif slammed the rubber in goal on rebound.

Gibbons scored the last goal against the rubber ended with a score reading 5-1 in favor of the visitors.

In the second frame Spence seized the rubber near his goal and sprinted for the other end, and he evaded the Neilburg defense and passed to Lepper who made the score. Neilburg then scored on a shot from a close range by McVior and Spence again scored for the oil town crew on a solo rush. Before the period ended with Neilburg 5-3, McVior again bulged the hemps.

Going into the third frame two down against a 9-0-0 deficit, looked like a forlorn hope for Wainwright, and even that feeble hope went further a-glimmering when Carlisle tallied another for Neilburg. Most teams with five minutes of the last period gone, and a score of 8-3 read against them would have died of a broken heart, but the handicap appeared to be just what the oil diggers required to stimulate them, and from that time to the end, the portly gentlemen minding the visitors' not had a few of the busiest moments of his life!

Spence secured the puck from a face-off near the center, and after zig-zagging clear through best goalie he worked out a scheme and price to dispose of town lots to outsiders as well as citizens which has provided a large income to the town ever since. Since taking the seat as Mayor, he has been in the forefront in interesting outside capital in our oil field, in helping the hospital committee to realize our fine municipal hospital, in encouraging the agricultural society to become the force it now is, in getting concessions from the Government in regard to good roads to the park. But perhaps his greatest achievement was the new federal building which has been sought by every town and city in the province. No one knows better than I do the amount of time, energy and money he has spent to have this building located here, a building which we are all justly proud of.

FARM LOAN BOARD
HAS INITIAL MEETING

FED. RURAL CREDITS SYSTEM WILL BE LAUNCHED IN SHORT TIME

OTTAWA—The Federal Farm Loan Board which consists of Hon. J. A. Robb as nominal chairman; Hon. J. D. MacLean farm loan commissioner; Hon. E. C. Drury and Mr. Beaudry Leman, organized here at a meeting when general procedure was discussed.

Quarters have been secured and a small sized staff recruited. An initial move will be taken to open up negotiations with the provinces which adhere to the plans and elicit their views and co-operation.

The essential purpose of the board, as indicated by its name is to establish a system of rural credit, on long terms thus providing a method of financing not easily obtainable now from either banks or mortgage companies.

The basic contribution of the Dominion, by way of loan is five million dollars but the board has power to issue securities guaranteed by the government and money thus raised will supply the funds for the loans. By way of working capital the Dominion provides and the borrowers will each make a percentage contribution. The plan of loan is that those eligible for them and other details will be largely provincial. The federal board will exercise a general supervision. Adhering to the plan are all the provinces except Ontario Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island and those which are party to the scheme the basis of organization will be discussed.

some credit at your hands for the management of the affairs of the town.

The chairman then called upon each individual Councillor to present a report of the committee of which that person was chairman and Councillor Welch, as chairman of finances gave his as follows:—

Our Finance Committee on Finance beg to report that the Auditors have prepared the report of the Town's standing for the past year.

This is an excellent report, probably the best that this town has ever published as it shows a cash surplus large enough to take care of any obligations maturing for some years to come and is a credit to every member of this Council and every citizen of the town; as without the active co-operation of all this condition of affairs would not be possible.

Our citizens have shown their faith in our town by buying lots, building stores and houses enlarging and remodeling their premises and showing the world that we intend to stay here and continue the progress that this report is a record of.

Great credit is due the Mayor, the Council and the Secretary; more in fact than is due the Finance Committee which only acts as a banker for the Council who have made and saved this money, and it is not out of place for one who has sat on this council for six years to make a few remarks regarding the personnel of this body to bring out the qualifications of the different members in relation to the part played in the success which made this report possible.

In the first place as you all know the position of Councillor or even Mayor is not a coveted one and the one who is elected to it is not the face of it that might seem an unenviable condition, but I believe it has worked for the welfare of the town, because the men who did take the seats were actuated by a strong sense of responsibility. They did not seek the position for the sake of the honor or the power, but they took interest enough in the welfare of the town to sacrifice their own time and interests to serve on the Council. When conditions are good and money is to be spent freely, the seats are sometimes contested by men with motives which do no work out so well for the welfare of the town as a whole, and who lose interest once their own ends are accomplished.

Mayor Forster is now completing his sixth year on this body, four years as councillor and two years as Mayor. One of the town's pioneers, he has always been a strong, dominant influence for progress. While on the Council as chairman of public works he started clandering, grading and graveling the streets. This work is still in progress and our streets are good. While chairman of the finance committee he worked out a scheme and price to dispose of town lots to outsiders as well as citizens which has provided a large income to the town ever since. Since taking the seat as Mayor, he has been in the forefront in interesting outside capital in our oil field, in helping the hospital committee to realize our fine municipal hospital, in encouraging the agricultural society to become the force it now is, in getting concessions from the Government in regard to good roads to the park. But perhaps his greatest achievement was the new federal building which has been sought by every town and city in the province. No one knows better than I do the amount of time, energy and money he has spent to have this building located here, a building which we are all justly proud of.

SCHOOL KIDDIES HOLD
PLEASANT SKATING PARTY

Last Friday evening was given over to the pupils in grades, six seven and eight and under the chaperonage of their teachers and two or three of the town ladies an admirable time was enjoyed by the youngsters. Following a bunch of games on the ice, skating to the very acceptable music of the newly-installed electric music maker was indulged in till nearly eleven o'clock. During the evening Miss Coral Rank with the aid of a couple of her girl pupils regaled all and sundry with coffee and sandwiches (not to mention the splendid cakes) to which of course the little people did ample justice. Altogether it was "one whole of a time!" for the participants.

WATCH WESTERN
OIL DEVELOPMENT

UNPRECEDENTED ACTIVITY IN OIL & GAS IS VISIONED
FOR TERRITORY

Calgary oil men most freely predict unprecedented activity in oil and gas well drilling in the West, this year. Many companies have made their plans for new work while other projects will be undertaken that have not as yet been planned.

Development in Turner Valley and Wainwright will be quite extensive. Work will continue in other fields now being proved and much wild-catting will be done on hitherto untested structure. With a known oil-bearing boundary extending from the international boundary, northwards along the Foothills to beyond the Peace River country and including a vast tract in Saskatchewan as well as Alberta, there is plenty of room for the development of new territory, commonly known as wild-catting.

Western oil development may well be watched this year. The oil industry in Alberta is the largest in the history of the province. Deliveries to the Imperial and Royal Refineries in Calgary amounted to 47,500 barrels in addition a very considerable quantity of the oil produced in the fields is used for local fuel and power uses and does not figure in the official record.

Following the success of Wainwright Oil last year the Wainwright field will get additional tests during 1929. These will be carried on by companies already interested in this promising field, and by new operators who already have their plans well under way.

Attention given Ribstone structure will be determined by results from the Meridian well now being drilled by Ribstone Oil.

The severe weather has somewhat held up the work on the new Federal building for a week or so.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR
FOR WOMEN'S INST.

STILL BALANCE IN BANK AFTER TWELVE MONTHS OF ACTIVITY

It was a truly successful year of great activity which the local W.I. closed at their annual meeting held recently.

This organization which makes no distinction of class, color or creed, closed the year with some 36 members on the roll; with an average attendance at the many meetings held of over half that number.

During the past year this institute has undertaken much work as class-rooms in raising work, baby clinics (no less than 66 babies were born, for examination) home nursing, millinery, and much like activities, and a splendid programme is being drawn up for the 1929 schedule. During the past year delegates have been in attendance at both the provincial and district conferences. In some of which gatherings, valuable pointers were brought back for the instruction of members of the local body.

The financial standing shows that they have still a balance on hand after expending well over $400 on such community work as: Furnishing ward in hospital assisting in work done at cemetery, placing first-aid kits in seven schools of the district, fruit and flowers to the sick, and sending Christmas hampers to those less fortunate. All of which is a work which is highly commendable and a work in which these ladies take a heart interest. It should be remembered, too that the funds for this work are all raised by the members' own efforts at silver teas, dances, fees and so on, and is therefore more praiseworthy.

The election of officers for the coming year was the first of which the following were elected:—President, Mrs. L. B. Bean; 1st vice-pres, Mrs. D. Davidson; 2nd vice-pres, Mrs. G. Petrie; sec., Mrs. A. Laessle; Treas., Mrs. A. Robinson; publicity convener Mrs. J. Welch; representative, Mrs. W. Brunker; auditors, Mrs. Brunker and Mrs. H. Smart.

The standing committees are as follows:—Education and better schools, Mrs. J. Patterson; entertainment, Mesdames A. Haney, W. Gould and G. Petrie; visiting, Mesdames, Welch, Gould, T. Blomson, Laessle, Davidson and Brunker.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS ARE ALL
RE-ELECTED FOR ENSUING YEAR TERM

The shareholders meeting of the Sasko-Wainwright Oil & Gas Limited was held at 401 Canada Building, Saskatoon on January 22nd, 1929. Quite a large attendance of shareholders were present and the shareholders as a whole expressed their confidence in the management of the Board of Directors and re-elected the same for another year.

The statement of accounts of the company were read for the shareholders, and were approved by same; which shows the Sasko-Wainwright Oil & Gas Limited to have a smaller number of shares at large than most companies doing business in this field. At the conclusion of the business Mr. Charles Brown moved a vote of thanks to the Board of Directors for the way they handled the business and it was seconded by Mr. I. Clark of Ardath being passed unanimously by the gathering.

THE CRIME CODE

A SERIAL STORY BY WILLIAM LE QUEX

Author of "Poison Shadows", "The Tattoo Mystery"

CHAPTER I

To Beg Pardon of the Reader

At the outset I wish to impress on those who read this straightforward and unembellished narrative of my amazing and often exciting adventures, that I seek not to hide my own shortcomings for they are alas! many and so I in the least desire to pose as a vainglorious hero. At least I am not one who sleeps about in the cozy slims of the sex problem.

From leading the normal life of an ordinary young man about London I was by a strange frank of ill-fortune and in the space of a single minute plunged into a veritable vortex of doubt and misery, compelled to lead the life of a hunted criminal and to resort to all sorts of ruses in order to retain my liberty. And yet the events which led up to the sudden change in my life are such as might occur to any man on any night in any big city of the world.

I suppose in order that I shall be understood right from the outset I may as well explain that I am Lionel Hipwell. My old surname is the Honorable George Hipwell of Hipwell Hall near Bulwick Northamptonshire, Deputy-Lieut. for the County and Member of Parliament for South-East Rutland. After Eton. I graduated at Oxford and then read for the Bar, to which I was called; but I have never practiced. For twenty-one years my father had sat for the same constituency in the Conservative interest and it was my ambition also to sit in the House. With that object I studied politics keenly, especially in reference to our relations with foreign countries; and I often addressed political meetings. I had the satisfaction of being hailed as sound in argument with a clear and lucid delivery. Therefore the decision of the Conservative party to adopt me as a candidate at the next election had recently placed me in the seventh heaven of delight. And when the King's Counsel Mr. John Gell the stoutest man who had taken silk. But unfortunately he and my father were bitter enemies arising out of political quarrel of a couple of years before. Hence both Joan and I thought it discreet to wait before announcing our engagement, until such time as the quarrel was patched up.

Nevertheless we met often—more often than her parents ever guessed. Indeed she not infrequently overstepped the bounds of strict propriety, some times coming to my rooms in Backville Street and taking a cosy tea with her feet upon my fender. I adored her and she on her part reciprocated my affection. We understood each other perfectly and though she was highly popular in a smart set and much sought after as a dancing partner, yet I had never any cause for undue jealousy. The society in which I moved in London—a fairly good one as judged in these hectic days of night-club dancing—had rather sickened me. I loved Hipwell, with its hunting with the Cottemore, its one-day-a-week beagling, the fishing over our own stream, the walks in the park in the spring, and the interviewing of our tenant-farmers. I had no use for the night club life of London with the marks that glow red on the pasty foreheads of callow youths and erotic wild ows, who rave about affinities and make the south of Sicily their winter home.

Though having quarreled with my father the stout old King's Counsel was always friendly towards me. Hence I was frequently invited to his house at Queen's Gate a place noted for the collection of antique furniture and on unrivaled assortment of ancient muffs. Mrs. Gell was a connoisseur and making a very income at the Bar expended money lavishly on his hobby. His wife a handsome woman, who doted on Joan gave frequent parties and for each I always a card. In the Temple it was an open secret that elevation to the Bench had been offered to "Jelly" Gell—a sobriquet bestowed upon him by one of his adversaries on account of the shaking of his protruding stomach when he grew unduly excited while addressing a jury. But the famous K. C. had preferred to remain at the Bar rather than forgo his income and accept the high responsibility and the rather meagre stipend with which the Government rewards its judges.

As for my self I held quite an important position in the Treaty Department of the Foreign Office a post which I confess carried with its short hours and little work for the Government does not make treaties with foreign powers every day—hence my office was almost a sinecure. I suppose family influence that of my uncle the old Earl of Whitelock and ex-Minister of the Crown, whose favorite I was highly to their usual situation. I fled. What would you have done in such circumstances?

I had acted only to protect a defenceless woman, and had closed with her adversary in self-defence I hurried away, turned the corner and was luckily by their usual situation. I fled. What would you have done in such circumstances?

through his jaw.
In a moment I shook myself free and sprang to my feet; but the man lay there motionless; the automatic pistol had fallen from his nerveless fingers and lay in the gutter.

"Good! What have you done? You've killed my poor Dick!" the dark-eyed young woman shrieked resentfully glancing at me.

In a moment I bent and breathless I made a swift examination. He was certainly dead! I stood staggered my senses for the moment being numbed.

"You've killed him!" yelled the woman frantic in her anger and distress "Police! Police!"

Only for a second I hesitated. In that instant I realized that I had at stake—the ruin of my love for Joan the extinction of my political ambitions and a charge of manslaughter under such conditions which might have led to my social situation.

I fled. What would you have done in such circumstances?

I had acted only to protect a defenceless woman, and had closed with her adversary in self-defence I hurried away, turned the corner and was luckily by their usual situation. I fled. What would you have done in such circumstances?

in some minutes heedless of the home-going cry of theatre-goers heedless of being frequently jostled the risk of going to any railway station in order to leave London was too great; for, I knew that the police always keep watch of such railway stations on receipt of such warning as had been given. A man had been shot dead in Bloomsbury Square and the supposed murderer—I was being actively sought for.

Only an idea crashed through my brain and turning back I joined the throng entered the tube station again and requested a ticket to Golders Green.

In due course I arrived there walked out turned to the left and continued along the high-road leading northward.

It was still raining heavily and my coat was soon very wet. I had upon me very fortunately a blank cheque—for it is my habit always to keep one with my cigarettes, in case of emergency—as well as about twenty pounds in Treasury notes which I had received at the gambling house as balance of the cheque I had given there.

I supposed I had gone about half a mile when I came across a small public house before which stood a heavy lorry marked "Osborne Nottingham" the driver no doubt was inside having a final drink before starting out on his night drive.

I loitered about until at last he emerged clad heavily in an old leather motor coat evidently a relic of war days, smoking a cigarette.

"Good evening," I exclaimed, "may I speak to you for a moment?" "Yes sir," he replied politely.

"Well I want you to do me a favor I hastened to say, 'You're going north aren't you?' "Yes to Wolverhampton," he returned.

"You've killed him!" yelled the woman frantic in her anger and distress "Police! Police!"

Only for a second I hesitated. In that instant I realized that I had at stake—the ruin of my love for Joan the extinction of my political ambitions and a charge of manslaughter under such conditions which might have led to my social situation.

"Will you let me come with you? I'll make it worth your while to take me," I suggested.
He regarded me suspiciously beneath the light of the street lamp I was in a soaked condition. No doubt he was surprised at being accosted.

What is a Bargain?

In this community are hundreds of individuals and families on the watch for an advertisement which will offer them what they want at an advantageous price.

Call them bargain-hunters if you will, but thrifty shoppers would be the better designation. Thrift is a commendable trait and merchants should cater to it.

One family wants a new carpet—the need is not urgent. Another family is looking forward to buying dining-room furniture—it may not be for a twelvemonth.

One man is thinking of buying himself a watch. One woman a shopping bag; another an umbrella.

All can be made to buy earlier—by advertising. Advertising can make the desire so keen that the bargain is forgotten in the fever for immediate possession.

A NOTE TO MERCHANTS

Stimulate business by the offer of some slow-moving lines at special prices. Brighten up business by advertising some desirable goods at reduced prices. Make advertising banish dull business. Often you can tempt the buyer who is biding his or her time to buy from you—at a time of your naming.

The Road To Better Health

By Dr ARTHUR L. FORSTER

So much has been written both in lay and medical publication about acidosis that the almost equally important subject of alkalosis has been very much neglected. Since both are an expression of a disturbance in the acid-base balance of the organism neither can rightfully be disregarded.

Production of Alkalosis

Many abnormal conditions are ascribed to acidosis that the use of alkaline preparations has become quite the vogue. Even some physicians have fallen into this newest therapeutic rut, aided and abetted by enterprising pharmaceutical houses.

There is, however, no excuse for any well-informed physician giving a patient an excessive amount of alkalis as it is now possible to determine whether alkalosis due to uncompensated alkali excess exists. This condition known as alkalemia, is shown by a high pH of blood and a high blood and plasma bicarbonate where bicarbonate of soda and alkali most commonly administered, has been given to excess.

Similarity of Symptoms

The symptoms of acidosis and alkalosis may be strikingly similar. Practically every symptom observed in acidosis was noted in alkalosis in a group of cases that were studied by Koehler. In both conditions there was loss of appetite, lassitude, listlessness, headache, nausea, and drowsiness.

The symptoms of acidosis may be come those of alkalosis without any change in the clinical picture, and therein lies the danger of giving an excess of alkali. The patient who is overcorrecting himself noting no change in his condition concludes that his acidosis is still unconquered and proceeds to increase the alkali intake. He doesn't realize that he has already neutralized the acid and jumped over to the other side of the fence.

Use of Insoluble Alkalies

Far-seeing clinicians are already awake to the possibility of over dosage with bicarbonate of soda. People with a sour stomach who try to treat themselves. Sometimes this self-deception serves. Sometimes this self-deception doesn't amount to anything some times it is fatal.

The person with an attack of indigestion who takes soda and then with an air of having achieved big things belches up a mound of gas is fooling himself technically if not clinically. The soda doesn't bring up the gas as so many suppose. What it does is combine with the fatty acids of fermentation in the stomach with the liberation of gas.

However, it may not be dyspepsia at all. The stomach upset may be in disguise of an ulcer, in which case while the soda gives temporary relief, the ulcer goes merrily digging on. The use of insoluble alkalies is now the approved procedure in cases where large amounts must be given as in the treatment of gastric ulcer. They possess the advantage that any excess beyond the needs of acid neutralization does not lead to the formation of free alkali in the system.

When one has a disorder due to acidosis alkali treatment will bring desired results. But care should be taken not to jump from one disorder to another. Nature can neutralize just so much of anything. She may be an alchemist, but she is not a magician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Looks Like Petit Mal

Mrs. Mac writes: "I have a daughter 14 years of age, who is usually well but has queer spells. When she is walking or talking she will stop for a second or two and seems to lose her self entirely, go to sleep you might say. She never falls, just stands still with eyes partly closed. You speak to her about it and she always says 'I was only thinking.' Her teacher spoke to me about it and advised having her tonsils taken out but her father is very much opposed to it. What would you advise?"

(1) Could you tell me the cause of those spells?

(2) What should be done for her?

Reply

(1) Your daughter probably has a solid type of epilepsy known as a petit mal. I am of course saying this on the basis of your description of the attacks, so don't be offended.

(2) The proper thing is to place her under the care of a competent physician. If the tonsils are actually diseased, they should certainly be removed. I say this in full appreciation of the fact that many tonsillectomies are unwarranted.

Boys at Red Deer, Alberta, earned Christmas pocket money by trapping. They brought in nearly 400 weasel skins worth a fortnight and also coyotes, rabbit, squirrel and cat skins.

Further experiments with super-phosphates from the mines at Trail, B.C., will be conducted in 1929 by the Alberta Department of Agriculture in connection with the Dominion Experimental Farms and C. P. R. experimental farms. An abundant quantity of this fertilizer will be available to free farmers.

Upwards of four millions of dollars will be expended this season in effecting alterations, improvements, and extensions to the Palliser Hotel at Calgary, Alberta, and the Empress Hotel at Victoria, British Columbia. E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway has just announced.

Four additional floors will be added to the former and an entirely new wing will be extended from the latter, brightening these two famous hostels even more up to date.

A Negro preacher walked into the office of a Southern newspaper and said: "Misto Edito", they is forty-three of my congregation which subscribe to 'yo' paper. Do that entitle me to have a church notice in 'yo' Sunday issue?" "Sit down and write," said the editor. "I thank you." And this is the notice the minister wrote: "Mount Memorial Baptist Church, the Rev. John Walker, pastor. Preaching morning and evening. In the promulgation of the gospel, three books are necessary: The Bible, the hymn book, and the pocketbook. Come to-morrow and bring all three."

Twenty head of holstein cattle from Alberta pure bred herds have arrived at Vancouver over Canadian Pacific Railway lines for shipment to Japan. These cattle were collected for a Japanese buyer by deputy minister of agriculture Craig.

Quite a few such shipments have passed through this port recently. The purchase of the stock for Japan was made through the Alberta government and the cattle were selected from various herds in the province. Several of the animals or their immediate ancestors have records of 20,000 pounds of milk per year and all of them are from high producing dams.

A monster black bear weighing over 400 pounds that stalked us right through the woods seeking what or whom it might devour and which had no forepaws, has just been trapped in New Brunswick, according to Dave Ovelly, well-known guide and outfitter. The bear used to rifle all the garbage dumps and refuse heaps in the neighbourhood of Plaster Rock, on the line of the C. P. R. and was caught by means of a trap hidden under dead leaves and some old paint tins. Examination of the body showed that its forefeet were crippled, either by deformity at birth or by accident, and that it must have walked about on its hind feet. Only tracks of the rear paws had been found and considerable mystery existed as to the murderer. Seymour Trafton and Jack Ogilvy caught the bear, whose skin measured over seven feet in length.

PAST AND PRESENT WELDED TOGETHER IN "NOAH'S ARK"

Absorbing romance spanning 170 centuries is unfolded in "Noah's Ark," Warner Bros. two million dollar Vitaphone super-production. In its ancient sequences the picture reverts to the time of Noah. In its modern scenes it includes the recent events of the World War, the action laid in Europe, and effecting a transition of thousands of years from its earliest to latest locales.

In a unique manner a thrilling love story, portrayed by Dolores Costello and George O'Brien, is interwoven throughout the unfolding of the massive spectacles uniting the two cataclysms.

The colossal ark of Noah in process of construction, with elephants doing the heavy hauling. This is one of the scenes that lend picturesque realism to the Warner Bros. screen production, "Noah's Ark."

Insert: Dolores Costello, who stars in it.

Hundreds of texts, including thirty versions of the Bible, were investigated in the more than two years spent in research to provide authentic background for the romance under the personal supervision of Darryl Francis Zanuck, the author. The thirty-eight-acre auxiliary studio of Warner Bros. was turned over to Michael Curtiz, the director, for filming the super-production. Credit for the photographic effects of the Flood sequences is given Fred Jackman.

At the head of the all-star cast with Miss Costello and O'Brien are Noah Berry and Louise Fazenda. More than 10,000 extras were used in presenting the revels of the ancients and the Deluge itself.

It portrays the destruction wrought by the Deluge, the survival of the patriarch, Noah, and his three sons, Japheth, Shem, and Ham, in addition to the depiction of this great cataclysm, reveals the luxury and grandeur of the ancient world of the idol worshippers of Mammon, who are swept away by the Flood. This tremendous climax is linked with another cataclysm, that of the World War. The similarities of the two epochs are dramatically shown. Its world premiere at Hollywood proved to be one of the grand events of film history.

Jones with a clean shot. A few moments later, old war-horse Buckle stood up on his hind legs, and galloping the length of the ice, slipped the disc across to Spence who scored. And the light was beginning to shine!

Murray the veteran of many battles scented victory in the air, and getting possession, tore along at a forty-mile clip, and made a sensational pass to the waiting Buckle. The old reliable came through with the necessary counter, and the score was tied. (About this time it is alleged that some of the lady fans on the north side had to be held down as Barney was in danger of being strangled by oscillation!)

A regrettable accident happened at this juncture, McIvor receiving a nasty cut over the eye. The blow was purely accidental, but it rendered "Mac" "hors de combat" and he was carried off for medical attention. When play was resumed, the crowd was howling for the odd goal and Spence and Leppar obliged; the former scoring on a beautiful assist by his team-mate.

The visitors worked like trojans to again tie the game, but the Wainwright defense held, and the crowd went home happy with the score being Wainwright 7-Neilburg 6. The whole visiting team are real hockey players and can give a good account of themselves against any team in their class.

For the locals (Spence, Leppar, Buckle and Murray) were the shining lights.

The line-up was:-

Neilburg	goal	Wainwright
Jones	defence	Buckle
Wilcox	defence	Murray
Carroll	defence	Murray

The cut flowers in the flower boxes and vases in the home may express cheerfulness just as a little nosegay pinned on the coat does. If the house wife is extremely modest, a box filled with the adorable little forget-me-nots will please her. Each of these little flower clusters is a bouquet in itself of pink and blue petals and green buds.

For her who prefers the more striking colors there are no flowers more lovely than the scarlet geraniums with a bit of trailing vine to fall over the side of the box. Bright red petunias like william or nasturtiums are always very beautiful in a box or vase.

Dripless Flower Boxes
The old style wooden flower boxes are seldom used nowadays. They have been replaced by strong metal ones which are dripless and can be used in doors. They may be had in the most pleasing enamel colors, such as yellow, blue, green or lavender. Some of them are made of galvanized steel with a water pocket running full length of the box giving a circulation of air to the roots but not allowing the water to stagnate.

So, any flower lover who is without outdoor garden space in the summer—she who has as well—may have a year round garden with a flower box and plenty of vases in the house.

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

(1) Hands that are constantly in water about the kitchen can be kept soft if a container for liquid soap is filled with glycerine, a few drops of carbolic acid and rose water and is fastened above the sink?

(2) After preparing fish or onions if ground mustard is rubbed on the hands and frying pan, the odor will disappear?

(3) During the cold months delicate skin can often be prevented from chapping if oatmeal or almond meal is used instead of soap when bathing?

(4) Camphor ice applied lightly to the lips and hands before going out of doors will prevent chapping and will keep the hands white?

(5) The taut feeling that the skin often has after bathing may be relieved by applying a softener to the water?

MYSTERY THRILLER

FULL OF LAUGHS

Yes sir, it's a house of mystery, a house of thrills and a house of laughs

That's "13 Washington Square" the

spooky eerie film starring Jean Hersholt and Alice Joyce which shows

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Theatre.

When you're not screaming, you're laughing and when others scream, you laugh—both with them and at them.

Taken all in all "13 Washington Square" is as thoroughly entertaining as any picture which has played here for months.

It has its serious moments of course and Jean Hersholt and Alice Joyce give fine performances full of really human touches. Hersholt enacts the role of a kindly picture thief who tries to rob the house owned by Miss Joyce who believes he is after her jewels.

There's a young couple in love very capably portrayed by George Lewis and Helen Foster

A great many of the laughs are the result of Zasu Pitts' adept pantomime. The entire supporting cast is excellent and Melville Brown's direction is splendid. The photography is clever and the picture will delight young and old.

WILL IMPORT 2,000 PHEASANTS

Of interest to sportsmen in the province will be the announcement that some 2,000 Mongolian and Chinese ring-necked pheasants will be imported during the coming summer by the Calgary Fish and Game Association. These birds will be liberated throughout the southern part of the province where 1,800 were placed last season as part of the Game Association's plan for restocking Alberta's game bird supply.

THE TOWN'S MEETINGFew and far between, indeed, are
the towns of this province which can even compare with, let alone surpass
the splendid condition in which Wainwright finds itself today. And that this is proven to the hilt is easily ascertained when the figures are given at the annual meeting of the ratepayers are taken to make comparison.From a number of other towns we have had the pleasure of perusing the
annual statements for the year 1928,
and although comparisons are odious
it would be well for the average rate-
payer to attend such a meeting as the
one mentioned and have the differences
shown as between town and town
laid on the table and explained.Towns of about the same average
population as our own, in different
corners of Alberta, have found it necessary to collect a much higher rate
of taxes for 1928, and yet at the end of the financial year have not nearly
the sound bank standing as Wainwright which today does not owe the bank a cent, and, in addition has a savings account of $20,000.00 in addition to nice surplus of town funds
of another $5,000.Commendation is certainly due the Council and their secretary for this
state of affairs at the closing of 1928
and although, possibly the full knowledge of this by most citizens, through
the publication of the balance sheet in
The Star, may have led many to consider attendance at the meeting
futile, it should have led them to be present to extend their thanks for so remarkable a year's work by that long
suffering body of underpaid public servants—the Town Council. For as
is so plainly pointed out by the auditors it is only by the closest attention
to detail and keen checking of expenditures commensurate with the absolute needs of the town that such a solid standing can be secured and steady and worth-while progress maintained by any corporate body.This goes also for the School Board
who have so faithfully studied "the greatest good to the largest number"
and in so doing have kept down their expenditures while attaining as high
a mark of efficiency as is possible with the material at their command.All in all, it seems to be a regular
"back-patting" time for all the citizens of "Wainwright the progressive!"VALUE OF TOURIST TRAFFIC
The President of the Bank of Montreal stated in his annual review of business conditions that the tourist
business was the second in importance in the Dominion. This statement is supported by calculations made by Harvard University's review of statistics and by the U.S. department of commerce.According to their estimates the total expenditures abroad by American tourists last year was in the neighborhood of $900,000,000. The department strokes a general average of expenditure for each tourist at $1,264.
The assumption that at least one-third
of this money was expended in Canada is a reasonable one.Records kept of the number of Americans leaving the country for a holiday show a rapid increase since 1919. In 1923 the number was placed at 260,000 and in 1927 at 406,000. A feature of interest to this country is that the use of the automobile for holiday tours is advancing in popularity at a tremendous rate and Canada attracts the great proportion of
this class of tourist.One of the greatest drawing cards
for auto tourists is good roads and well appointed auto camps. The Canadian provinces are making good progress in highway improvement, and
the provinces which are most advanced in this particular are drawing the greatest number of tourists. Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia are the favorite destinations of American visitors. As soon as the prairie provinces complete a chain of main highways, they will become more formi-

able competitors.

The completion of the trans-Canada
highway from Revelstoke to Golden
to supply a direct route across the mountains and the construction of the missing link between Manitoba
and Ontario will undoubtedly draw tourists to the west. These are projects for which federal assistance is sought and for which a favorable response should be forthcoming.—Ex

FLYING WILL SOON

BE FOOL PROOF

War flying and commercial flying
can be likened to driving an automobile around a race track and on the road. The tiny graceful, high-speed plane is of little or no use in aerial travel. With the possibility of engine
failure, which can never be foretold
—and the risks of forced landings, a plane with a landing speed of 50, 60
and 70 miles per hour is of little use
for cross country work. A passenger plane will and must be fool-proof.The air is like the sea. Storms come up unexpectedly and weathering a sudden thunderstorm, or a tricky wind
commands all the skill and experience
that a pilot has. One mistake at a critical moment, no matter how slight
is liable to crash both plane and passengers.The commercial pilot is paid for what he achieves rather than what he makes. He must be able to land his ship under all sorts of conditions,
places and times. He can break his own neck if he likes, but the public
must be safeguarded. A man flying his own plane has a license, but he is not subjected to the same restrictions
of the commercial pilot. Commercial planes are certified for a definite load
and in the air no strap-hanging or overloading is permitted.Aside from engine failure a variety of causes may necessitate a forced landing. And driving a plane through a gray, shadowy fog world is one of the real shrills of flying. It calls for all the pilot's skill and knowledge of compass to get the machine safely
back to earth.Navigation is, and always will be,
a vital factor to the pilot. For even
at this early stage of the game Kipling's
"Night Mail" has become a reality.
Ten years from now—what?The best aeronautical brains in the country are at work striving to make
flying fool-proof and it won't be long before airplanes are really that.Miss E. Watson of town, is now installed in her new duties as stenographer at the Bank of Montreal at Edgerton.CONTINUATION OF Enthusiastic Gathering

motion it has been carefully and critically considered as to cost and necessity. He as chairman of the public works has been entrusted with the spending of the major part of the Town's money. He has made many needed and permanent improvements
and there has never been a question
that we have not received full value
for every cent spent, and we consider him a strong factor. He is the type
that serves as a balance for the more enthusiastic members of the Council
and insures safe, sane and sensible administration.Councilor Clifton came to us for his first term with a wealth of experience in other organizations and
has handled his committees progressively and effectively without undue expenditure.Councilor Petrie is also serving his first term. His business experience
and sound judgment has also helped
to make the financial report possible.
I doubt if any town in the Dominion
has been as fortunate as we have, in retaining the services of a Secretary
with the long experience of Mr. Pawling. He has been identified with the Town's affairs from the start and was the first secretary at Wainwright. His thorough knowledge of the Town's business, his careful attention to every detail, his experience as a business man, coupled with a strong personality and close co-operation with the Council has helped this and past Councils over the rough spots. He has had practically entire charge of theTown's finances and this report should be credited to his ability more than
to any other member of the Council.
This Council has now in hand a number of projects for improvement and progress. We need water and sewage systems; we need town planning and
tree planting; a High School and Public Library have been thought of; all of which will call for the expenditure
of large amounts of money, some of which we have but most of which must be raised by mortgaging the future.
And what will be that future? We are now riding on a wave of prosperity and everything looks exceedingly rosy. We all expect our town to grow to a city or we would not stay
here, or invest our time and money
here. Our future depends largely on the forward-looking men of our town;
and our hospital and federal building
show that we have the best ability in that line. But we must not overlook history. Seventeen years ago, this town and nearly every other town in Alberta had about the same population as it has today. We expected great improvement then and built in anticipation of it. You all know how we have struggled to meet these payments and it behooves us to look in-
to every proposition which entails the
spending of money very carefully,
and to heed well that part of the
auditors' report where he refers to the
careful management of the town's financial affairs. We need well-balanced Councils, with great business sagacity,
who will keep our town well in the forefront and up to the trend of
the times and yet avoid the pitfalls
of the past. We have worked well in adversity, are we strong enough to work wisely in prosperity?I have read your financial report that we are all proud of. I have tried to convey to you that every citizen
will read every member of the board present and past have done
their share to make this possible and I want to thank everyone sincerely for your help in placing this Town in the fortunate financial condition we now
find ourselves, and ask you to be careful as now is the time we need
the best brains among us to handle
the town's affairs. Everyone makes money; few keep it and make progress; and that is what our town needs
to do.In dealing with the committee on public works, Councilor Robinson,
the chairman, very clearly explained
the several works which have been undertaken during 1928 and pointed out
that although the greatest appropriation of the town's funds had been expended through his committee, not
one cent of this had been spent to disadvantage, but that indeed all improvements had been economically
handled, and that the appropriation
laid out for him at the beginning of the year had not all been used. He mentioned that there are still other matters upon which his committee
were working, all of which would tend to increase the desirability of living in Wainwright, and which were needed to keep our town at the high standard it was hoped to maintain.
This speaker pointed out, too, the feasibility of the ratepayers exercising some patience regarding the sidewalks programme, and in time there is a possibility of a town planning
and tree planting scheme being gone
into which will make this one of the beauty spots of Northern Alberta.Reporting as chairman of the fire,
water and light committee, Councilor Clifton gave a resume of the work
which had been met in fire fighting
during the year, and the number of men and machines upon which the town could call at all time for this work. This gentleman also reported
upon the matters pertaining to the assessment and property committee
and showed how the Council had made progress in the disposal of lots which
had reverted to the town as a whole.
Mr. Clifton pointed out, too, the big
increase in the demand for these lots
and the advantageous manner in which the deals for them had been handled by the Council.Councilor Huntingford in giving a brief report for the half-year period
in which he had charge of the electric utility before it had been disposed of
to the Calgary Power Co. for a ten-
year franchise period in answer to the
expressed wish of the burgesses
through their voting on the subject,
showed how the Town had certainly
made a wise deal in getting rid of the plant, and that as a result of that deal
every user of the energy was benefitting from the reduced rates which
it had been impossible for the Council to have effected on account
of the enormous outlay required for capital expenditure, expansion, which expense has had to be borne by the franchise holders, but from which the town at large is reaping
the benefit.In continuing as chairman of the scavenging committee, the speaker
mentioned that at last, after many years of most unsatisfactory conditions regarding the work of this particular branch of the town's duties to the citizens, things were being carried on in a most satisfactory manner and that the lack of complaints, for which
the committee had formerly been noted, proved that the ratepayers were receiving the utmost attention to their needs along the lines of sanitation. He pointed out, too, that despite arguments to the contrary, the work of
his committee was being carried out

at a cost which was much lower than
in previous years on a population
basis.
Before closing his report, this speaker intimated that before very long, it was his intention to place before the burgesses the matter of the proposed waterworks and a sewage system for the town; thus bringing Wainwright
to the forefront as among the up-to-date and progressive towns of Alberta.In reporting for Councilor Petrie,
who was unavoidably absent, Mr. Huntingford, read into the record that the committee had not been in session
during the past year, but that a much needed improvement by way of a new road through the country had been opened up whereby it is now
possible to drive through the ground
without the necessity of turning in the narrow driveways. The committee had spent but very little money on the subject, and the limits of the appropriation had not been needed. He also mentioned that it was his desire to set
this portion of the Council's work
down more thoroughly next year,
with the intention of beautifying the place and making it such a spot as would be a credit to any town.During the presentation of the several reports which in each case were received with applause, great attention
was paid to the speakers by those present, and satisfaction expressed at the manner in which our Council have fulfilled their elected duties during the year just passed.In speaking to the matter of the beautification of the cemetery grounds
Mr. J. C. McLeod, was entirely in favor of this project, and thought that it could be accomplished at a little expense, as well as the re-staking of a number of the blocks in the cemetery
did shape for the monetary angle.
The speaker mentioned also that the individual graves more easily
traceable.The Councilor having then vacated
their chairs, Dr. J. G. Middlemass,
chairman of the School Board, gave an exhaustive report of the financial standing of that body. This showed that the school district was in apparently good shape from the monetary angle. The speaker mentioned also that several schools had been handled on
a smaller sum of money than last year
despite the fact that more teachers
had been needed and that automatic
increases in salaries had been paid.
This year also an extra room had to be provided on account of the still increasing number of pupils; the total of these now being well over 300.In answer to a question, the chairman stated that he felt that the Board
were decidedly in favor of a Grade
VII room for the Junior High School
as soon as the necessary funds to cover
this provision were found to be available. He told his listeners, too, that although the youngsters in the kindergarten had been placed on half-time
tuition, the arrangement was working
to real hardship, as the backward
ones were in this way receiving more individual teaching, and thus the whole of the nearly sixty pupils in
the "baby" classes were being brought along on a more level average for the grades into which they would follow.
The teachers also came in for a mead
of praise for the manner in which their duties were carried out.Several questions of interest were answered by Dr. Middlemass, all of which went to show that the Wainwright schools are being handled in a satisfactory and efficient manner, and
with savings being made wherever possible for the benefits of the rate-
payers consistent with proper service to the rising generation.
Votes of thanks closed the meeting.

Town of Wainwright.A Bid For Freedom:THE trend of business is towards amalgamation and centralization—building up vast organizations
through combinations of many small ones. In the face of this development the farmer as a single unit has found himself isolated, helpless and working at a disad-vantage.The first step taken by producers to remedy their position
was the formation of produce re co-operatives of which the Wheat Pool is the most notable example. In the Pool
the strength of unity has been demonstrated time and again.For the protection of himself and his family, and for the advancement of agriculture in general, every wheat producer in Alberta should join the Alberta Wheat Pool.
There is no question but that the Wheat Pool has corrected
abuses, narrowed grain trade profits, stabilized markets
and lessened disastrous speculation for the benefit of ALL wheat growers in Canada.Undoubtedly the Wheat Pool has paid higher average prices to its members than the Grain Trade has paid to non-Poolers.The Pool elevator system operated, on a non-profit basis
has given its patrons service at cost, fair weights and grades, and a measure of protection never before accordedTo Those Who Have Not Yet Joined the Wheat Pool:Are you going to build and maintain private grain and elevator systems forever and provide abundant profits for stock-holders year after year?Or are you going to join the Wheat Pool ranks and work for your own interests and the interest of your Pool neighbors?

GRAIN COM. TO HOLD

SITTINGS IN ALBERTA

Authority has been given by the provincial government under The Public Inquiries Act, to the commission appointed by the government of Saskatchewan, on the grading and marketing of grain to hold sittings in Alberta.

This action has been taken at the request of the commission itself which has left that in order to make its inquiries as complete as possible, it should extend them to this province also which it could not do unless clothed with some authority from the Alberta Government. Desiring to co-operate with the sister province and to facilitate the work of its commission as much as possible the necessary powers have now been conferred upon the commission which will therefore have the right to hold sitting in Alberta on the same basis as in its own province. It is not known how many sittings will be held, but presumably the larger centres will be included in the itinerary and possibly some of the "riding rural shipping points."

STEAM UP FOR LONDON

This model, a perfect working miniature of one of the Canadian National Railway's giant locomotives, is now on its way to London, England, where it will be exhibited in the European offices of the National system. John E. Wood, of Winnipeg, constructed it in his spare time, and it took him fourteen months of diligence and skill. The main frames and some of the other parts were made by apprentices in the Fort Rouge and Transcona shops. The model is correct in all external details and will work 326 tons.

BY R. M. SHERRILL
(Radio Engineer)

An investigation of the phenomena of fading particularly in high frequency transmission will be made during the stay of the Byrd expedition in the Antarctic by L. V. Berkner—assistant radio engineer of the Bureau of Standards—who has gone with the expedition as a radio officer.

The equipment for the work consists of two special high frequency receiving sets loaned by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, to which fading recorders have been adapted by the Bureau of Standards. The equipment is similar to those used by the Bureau in previous investigations and the method used will be the same.

It is expected that this investigation will give information on the effect of the concentration of the earth's magnetic field at the south magnetic pole of auroras, temperature, height of the radio reflecting layer and many other phenomena which affect radio transmission. Mr. Berkner will make observation upon selected stations and some special transmissions may be arranged.

Language Lessons By Radio

It seems that the radio will always be a useful instrument in the teaching of languages to large groups. In Rabat, Morocco, French lessons for Arabs and lessons in Arabic for French colonists are broadcast by the Rabat station.

Keeping in Touch with Civilization from Alaska

A letter from a fur warden in the frozen Nome region of Alaska, to station KGO of Oakland, California tells an interesting story of hearing that station in an igloo hundreds of miles from the nearest town.

"It has been snowing all day with a miserable wind blowing. It was dark when I pulled up to an igloo—the first sign of life after hours of traveling. I crawled through a tunnelled place in the snow to get inside. When I entered there sat an old prospector."

Here and There

(214) For the first time in history, an airplane has been carrying furs from the wilds of Northern Manitoba to the Winnipeg market. Hollick Kenyon, aviator, left Cranberry Portage by truck settlement recently, taking Del Symonds, veteran trader, whose aim was to beat all competitors who take a month to travel by dog team.

During 1928 between 5,600 and 5,700 Prince Edward Island furs have been shipped abroad, an increase over the 4,260 shipped the preceding year. These have been handled without a single known casualty. Since the middle of October furs have been shipped to Norway, Sweden, Scotland, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Bavaria, Finland, France, Holland, Switzerland and Japan.

Forty-two years of service with the Canadian Pacific Railway without having broken any of the company's rules or otherwise earned a mark against himself is the unique record held by Arthur W. Savage, engineer, who has just retired on pension. Mr. Savage, who is well known throughout the Eastern Townships, fired the train that laid the first steel on the line between Sherbrooke and Parham.

The old English Yuletide Festival held recently at the Empress Hotel in Victoria, B.C., proved to be one of the most popular events of last year. Carol and yuletide music were rendered, the ancient "Chester Mystery" staged, and Dickens' "Mrs. Wardle's Christmas Party" was produced. The festival culminated in a ball at which some seven hundred persons attended. It is believed that plans are already being made for a larger and better celebration next year.

A change in telephone numbers has drawn attention to the train inquiry office in the great Windsor Street Station of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Montreal. The girls who are on duty there handle each on an average of 200 calls an hour, and as many as 300 an hour during rush times. They carry most of the information in their heads and seldom have to refer to a time-table. They are asked queer questions sometimes. Recently someone asked, "When does the afternoon begin," and the old power turned up. "What time does the four o'clock train leave?"

Dr. Kuehlert, a farmer residing about four miles east of Souris, Manitoba, has about 6,000 bushels of wheat stored in his granary. He is shipping out all over Western Canada in two-bushel lots, as soon as the list of addresses arrives from Ottawa—for the project is under the supervision of the Dominion Government. As it is pretty generally known, Reward wheat is marketed a week earlier than Marquis and, for this reason, can be grown further north. This early ripening means, roughly, that a new strip of country 75 by 1,000 miles, is made available for wheat growing.

as comfortable as could be with a head set on, listening to some old-time songs from KGO."

An Unique Transmitter

The Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture has designed and built a seven-pound radio transmitting and receiving set for use of forest fire-fighting lines.

New Navy Dirigibles to Have Powerful Transmitters

Radio transmitters capable of sending signals to virtually every part of the world will be installed in the two mammoth dirigibles the ZR4 and ZR5 to be constructed for the Navy.

It is the desire of the Navy department that the new rigid airships be equipped with apparatus which will have a communication range equal to their circling radius which will be more than 5,000 miles. In case either ship should make transatlantic flights its crew could keep in communication with Lakehurst or Washington virtually all the way.

It has been decided to use the Los Angeles as an experimental ship in determining the designs for the radio equipment.

The ships are to be powered with eight engines instead of five as in the case of the Los Angeles and the ignition systems of the engines will be shielded to improve radio reception on board. The ships are to be of 6,000,000 cubic feet capacity which is approximately three times the size of the Los Angeles.

RADIO QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—M. J. P. says: "Whenever I turn on the dial light on my set it makes a loud hum in the speaker. Why is this and how can I eliminate the trouble?"

A—The two wires leading to the dial light should be twisted together and kept as far away from the set wiring as possible. If this does not eliminate the hum, run the wires through a metal tube that is grounded.

Q—T. E. E. asks: "Can a selenium cell be used in place of a photo-electric cell for a television outfit?"

A—No. The selenium cell takes an appreciable time to respond to light changes while with the photo-electric cell the response is instantaneous.

Q—R. O. J. says: "I am using UX 10 tube in a transmitting set. When I use for but a few minutes the plate becomes red hot, though it continues to operate well. Is this harmful to the tube?"

A—The plate of the UX210 may get a dull red in normal operation. Heating much more than this may shorten the life of the tube.

ARE YOU UP IN AIR SLANG?

You should be up in air slang as it spoken around the best hangars other wise you won't know what your air minded friends are talking about. Here is some of the latest:

"Hoik 'em up" Used when getting clear of a small field—to lift the plane clear of obstacles.

"Tookin' along" Running along sweetly.

"Mushing 'er in" Or "pan-cake" Making the plane lose forward speed in landing; keep it from the hitting the ground on its nose.

"Haven't cracked a throttle for a week" Meaning he hasn't flown in that time.

Lindbergh and Goebel are "hot flyers" meaning that they are daring efficient and real flyers.

The greatly misused term "zooming" actually means pulling the ship upward after a long dive towards the ground. And "blind flying" means of course flying in the rain or fog with no chance to see where you are going.

"A power landing" is one made by seaplanes or land planes in a fog when the surface or the water or land is not visible—this sort of landing you and I are not standing in line to make.

"A ground turn at the moment the plane touches the ground While "stopping a toe" happens when a sea plane lands and digs in the front of a pontoon.

There are scores more and by next year there will be a thousand more slang aeronautical terms. Yet so common are the terms of this new slang around the hangars that flyers are not conscious that they are creating a brand new slang language.

Where these new terms started nobody knows. Perhaps a pilot was in a hurry one day and wanted to get rid of a long three syllable technical term. Anyway this new slang is here to stay; so you had better get used to it. Other wise you won't be up on air slang.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1928-29 by
Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 7

There is no better way to improve your game than by study of the manner in which good players bid or play interesting hands, but to get this result, you must really study the hand and particularly the principle involved. Most players, however, only look over a problem hand in a cursory manner and thus obtain little or no benefit. Here is a hand that illustrates a principle of play that should be understood by all players; namely, "throwing the lead."

Example Hand

Hearts—10, 8, 6, 2
Clubs—4
Diamonds—K, 10, 9, 5, 2
Spades—A, 9, 3

Hearts—K, 9, 3
Clubs—K, Q, J, 10
Diamonds—4
Spades—K, Q, J, 10, 5

Hearts—A, Q, 5
Clubs—A, 8, 7, 5, 3, 2
Diamonds—A, Q, J, 7, 6
Spades—7, 2

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid no trump. A bid two spades, Y bid two no trump, B and Z passed and A bid three spades. Y and B passed, Z bid three no trump, A doubled and all passed.

A opened the king of clubs and Z held off until the third round of spades, winning the third spade trick in Y's hand with the ace.

Z then led five rounds of diamonds on which A was obliged to discard four times. He could discard only two clubs or 24 clubs would be good. The other two discards could be one spade and one heart.

At the sixth trick, therefore, Z should play the ace of clubs and a low club, forcing A in the lead with the king of clubs. A can now make his spade trick and then must lead away from his hearts up to the ace queen in Z's hand. Played in this way, Z makes three odd game and rubber, and there is no defense. Learn to "throw the lead" into an opponent's hand when by so doing you will force a lead to your advantage.

Here is a pretty hand that will make

Answer to Problem No. 6

Hearts—4, 3
Clubs—none
Diamonds—5, 4, 3, 2
Spades—4, 3

Hearts—K, Q
Clubs—K, Q, J, 10
Diamonds—none
Spades—K, Q

If diamonds are trumps and Z is in the lead, can Y win all the tricks against any defense?

Answer: Y can make all the remaining tricks, as follows: Z should lead the deuce of clubs, trumping in Y's hand with the deuce of diamonds. At trick two Y should lead the five of diamonds. B cannot discard a club, for if he does Z can take the lead and set up a club trick, thus easily giving Y Z eight tricks. At trick two, therefore, B is obliged to discard a heart or a spade. As the suits are exactly the same, suppose B discards a heart. What ever suit B selects, Z should follow the discard. Thus, if B discards the queen of hearts, Z should discard the deuce of hearts. A's discard at this stage is immaterial, but let B be the suit which B does not discard, in this instance, spades. At trick two, therefore, B discards the nine of spades.

At trick three Y should lead the five of hearts, the suit B discarded. Y wins the trick with the ace, A follows suit. At trick four, Z should lead the ace of clubs. All follow suit except Y, who should discard the ten of spades.

At trick five Z should lead the four of clubs. A can discard the ten of hearts. Y trumps with the three of diamonds and B follows suit.

At trick six, Y should lead the four of diamonds. B cannot discard his last club or Z's ten of clubs and ace of spades will win the last two tricks. B is forced, therefore, to discard the queen of spades. Z discards the jack of clubs. A cannot discard the jack of hearts or Y's four of hearts will be good. A is forced, therefore, to discard the ten of spades.

At trick seven, Y should lead the four of spades and Z wins the next two tricks with the ace and deuce of spades. This is a pretty problem in discarding and should be carefully studied. Many a game and rubber is won by forcing opponents to discard to their disadvantage, so any problem illustrating such tactics cannot help but be valuable. In working out these problems, be sure to lay out the hands and follow the solution very carefully, playing the card named on each trick from each hand. In no other way can the reader obtain the maximum benefit.

BACK FROM THE BARRENS

Although he had not been out of the Barren Lands for fifteen years, George Yandle, trapper, maintained a fine sense of civilization. The first thing he did when he got to The Pass—he did not even wait until he reached Winnipeg—was to buy himself a pair of spats with zippers. Yandle acted as interpreter when Count Illa Tolstoy entertained the Eskimos in the far north. The photograph, which was taken outside the Canadian National Railway station in Winnipeg, just after the trio's arrival, shows Yandle, Tolstoy, in the centre; and W. J. Cassel, photographer. Count Tolstoy, who is the grandson of the great Russian writer and philanthropist, headed an expedition into the Barrens to study the migration habits of the caribou, and some unusual photographs were obtained of the immense herds. After spending a day in Winnipeg, the party, together with five Eskimo dogs, worth $65 apiece, went to Inagamit, the Ontario forest reserve, for further study of wild animals, and thence to New York.

by a man in rain-soaked evening clothes who begged a lift on his night drive to the Midlands.

"I noticed his hesitation and added: 'I'll tell you the reason on the way. I've made a fool of myself and I want to get away from London. The fact is that I've run foul of the racing crowd—and they're after me'.

"Ah! I've read in the papers how a set of racemasters' thoughts are going about trying to do in people who object to their ways," he said. "Yes, sir, I'll give you a lift."

But you're a bit wet ain't you? "A little bit!" I laughed. Where upon he climbed into the covered lorry and produced an old overcoat which he bade me exchange for my wet one, and a spare cap, which I put on in place of my crush hat. In that moment I was already disguised as a lorry driver, and a few minutes later we moved away along the broad, wet, high-way in the direction of Barnet.

In the first hour that I sat at his side gossiping I was ignorant that we were not alone until he casually mentioned "My mate Dick is having a good snooze inside. He drove to London to day and I'm driving back. We do this three days a week."

Then I realized that inside the lorry which was half-filled with wooden cases apparently from the docks there was lying upon a heap of tarpaulin the figure of a young man deep in sleep. This was somewhat disconcerting I had to reckon with two men keeping their mouths shut next day when the papers would give an account of the tragedy in Bloomsbury. On the other hand I had further design than that of travel—that of disguise.

As we went along to St Albans I related to the driver a fantastic story of how I had denounced a small book maker and thereby upon myself what I feared was a vendetta. I had secret warning what some thing serious was to happen to me and I had thought flight the most discreet course to adopt.

My story of course was a very lame one but the young man being fond of racing listened to me intently because fortunately for me three members of a racing gang only a few days before had been given heavy sentences at the Old Bailey.

We had travelled perhaps forty odd miles when the sleeping Dick awoke and seemed greatly surprised to find that they had a passenger. After he had slipped in between us his friend explained the reason of my presence, hinting that I had promised a reward for their assistance.

"You for certain reasons I don't want my friends to know anything. You may think I'm a crook but I assure you I'm not. In three evening clothes I might be even a cat-burglar."

Both men laughed. "Well I'm not!" I said. "But if you fellows will keep a still tongue I'll give you five pound each at the end of the run and if one of you will sell your clothes to me I'll give you money to buy a new suit what shall we say—seven pounds?"

A brief silence fell. "Make it a tenner governor and you can have mine!" Dick said. "You're about my build."

"Very well!" I replied. "Let's both get back into the back and change."

My companion the driver laughed heartily as we both crept into the back among the cases and there while we were travelling we exchanged clothes.

"What will your wife say when you arrive home in the morning dressed as a gentleman—eh Dick?" shouted the driver turning his head back a moment.

"She'll think I've come into a fortune when I give her a couple of quid!" laughed his pal as he drew off his trousers and handed them to me in return for mine.

"You fellows won't utter a word. Promise me!" I shouted.

"Of course we won't!" both assured me setting me considerably at my ease.

Up to that moment I had been full of fear lest the driver suspecting me and

"40,000 DEATHS FROM FLU FORECAST"

Excerpt From Winnipeg Free Press, Friday, December 28th, 1928

PREDICT GREATER EPIDEMIC

U.S. Surgeon General Says Worst Cases of Influenza May Develop

710 DEATHS

Special United Press Dispatch in Free Press from Free Press, Friday, Dec. 28. WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 28.—United States health service authorities estimated that between 30,000 and 40,000 deaths might result from influenza and pneumonia during the present epidemic.

Their predictions were based on deaths reported thus far and on reports from various states, indicating that more than a million persons now are suffering from influenza.

(Associated Press Dispatch.)

Washington, Dec. 28.—Another outbreak of "flu" more severe in nature than the disease now prevailing is regarded as a possibility later in the winter by Surgeon General Cummings. He said that he viewed the situation at present as serious, but declared that the present wave is mild in character and that there is an apparent absence of complications.

There is little likelihood, in the opinion of the surgeon-general, that the disease will not spread over the Atlantic states as it has in the west and parts of the south.

"This seems to be a typical influenza epidemic," he said, "and it is similar to the 1918 outbreak in the middle of the first cases."

Deaths in the 1918 wave were 500,000 in excess of the normal number from the malady, and in 1920 there were 100,000 excess deaths but in 1920 there were only between 15,000 and 20,000. Indications so far have led Surgeon-General Cummings to believe that mortality this year may be greater than in 1920.

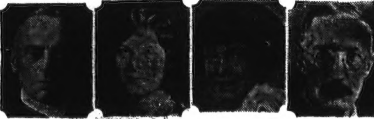

He agreed with the estimate by public health officials that there were approximately a million and a quarter new cases in the United States during the week ending December 22. This estimate was based on 25,562 cases actually reported from all but seven states.

Deaths from 55 cities for the week ending, December 22 were 710, reports to the census bureau showed, as compared with 475 deaths in sixty-two cities for the previous week. Surgeon-General Cummings said that this bore out expectation of a large increase in deaths as the number of cases increased.

Why Neglect Your Health At Any Time

The person fortunate enough to be blessed with good health, should be careful enough to protect it. Nature should be assisted in keeping the Human System in a normal, healthy, properly functioning state.

The poisonous acids and waste matter, which creep into the blood system and which have such an unwholesome effect on the entire body, should be driven from the system. Allowed to remain, they will slowly take root, and are a constant danger to good health.

The body, free from poisonous acids and waste matter, is not nearly so susceptible to sickness as is the weakened system of a neglected person.

There is not one person in all the land who does not profit from the use of "KEENO," the remarkably efficient system regulator and blood purifier.

Assure future health by using this medicine. Three bottles twice a year, is a splendid guarantee for continued good health.

Follow The Suggestions Noted Below

If your stomach is weak and affected, you have little appetite, your food is not tasty and does not digest properly, you suffer from gas, and acid stomach, USE "KEENO."

If your liver is torpid and you suffer from headaches, dizzy spells and spots before the eyes, if your skin is yellow and your complexion sallow, USE "KEENO."

If your bowels are not acting in normal manner and you suffer from constipation, which you surely realize is a more serious trouble, USE "KEENO."

If you are troubled with too frequent or burning kidney action, if acids have prevailed the blood system and cause you to suffer the agonies of rheumatic pain, USE "KEENO."

If your nervous system is weak and rundown, you are easily startled and little things cause you to worry and fret—you cannot sleep soundly or restfully—USE "KEENO."

If your blood is impure and black, heads, pimples, boils and other forms of skin eruptions are showing, USE "KEENO." This medicine assures a clear, smooth, velvet-like skin.

CANADIAN SITUATION SECTIONAL

Some Localities Affected To Greater Extent Than Others

CARE URGED

Toronto, Ont.—It is estimated that approximately 75,000 people in eastern Canada are suffering with influenza. Reports from the west indicate conditions are less severe there. As is usually the case, the epidemic is more severe in some localities than in others. Health authorities throughout Canada are bending every effort to check the spread.

Exercise Care

It is absolutely essential that everyone should be particularly careful at this time in keeping the system in a strong healthy condition, so that it can successfully resist the germs of disease. It is especially good to flush the liver and bowels regularly.

While "KEENO" is not recommended to relieve severe colds, grippe and influenza, this medicine should be placed to regular use as a safeguard against those ills by all who desire to build, regulate and strengthen the system so that it will offer maximum resistance to the germs of disease.

Flushes Liver and Bowels
"KEENO" not only cleanses, regulates and strengthens the entire system, but this medicine flushes the liver and bowels, eliminating poisonous waste matter, which allowed to remain would be the favorite breeding place for the germs of disease.

"KEENO" is also recommended from the "FLU." That weak, tired, depressed feeling can be overcome through the use of this efficient medicine. It is a splendid promoter of health, vigor and vitality and serves further as an excellent efficient blood purifier.

For Use By All
"KEENO" should be used by everyone. It is effective in every age. The young and old alike, men, women and children benefit through its use. Thousands of families throughout Canada use "KEENO" regularly. Its merit and efficiency has been thoroughly proven. You, too, will find "KEENO" correct in every respect it is recommended.

desirous of being in the good graces of the police might pull up before a countable and express his suspicions. In that case my only chance of escape would have gone with only ruin before me.

While travelling over that interminable wet road in that lumbering lorry I had realized the scandal which must ensue if I were hauled before a magistrate and the scene with the flashy daughter of the night described by her. Her ennui turning upon me as she had done would result in a charge of wilful murder.

I thought of dear Joan. What would she think? How would she judge me? At last I had changed my evening clothes for the garb of a lorry driver, a decent gray tweed suit of cheap material fairly good boots, a thick well worn overcoat, and a rather crummy brown golf cap, while in the uncertain light of the candle end he had lit he presented a grotesque figure in my cramped shirt with its two attractive studs his black tie awry and his collar limp with the rain.

"Pull up and look at me Teddy!" he shouted to my acquaintance the driver. Teddy slowed down put on the brakes and came to a standstill on the brow of a hill. Then turning to look in the rear.

Meanwhile Dick produced from beneath the tarpaulin upon which he had been sleeping two bottles of beer one of which he handed to me. Then after taking a swift draught from the other bottle he handed it to his mate.

Health Service of the CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

EXERCISE AND REST

Particularly during the winter months, it appears to be necessary to remind many persons of the need for daily exercise of the body. Exercise tends to strengthen the muscles of the body, including the heart which is a muscular organ. Exercise deepens and increases respiration, produces heat, induces perspiration, and develops the motor and sensory nerve centres of the brain.

If the food which we eat is to be properly digested and used for the nutrition of the body, we must exercise; if the elimination from bowel and kidney is to be kept in proper order, we must exercise. It is perhaps a good working rule to say that the normal individual should exercise to the point of perspiration once a day.

We should walk sometimes in place of riding, play some games and spread them throughout the week, not concentrate them all on Saturday.

On the other hand we should not forget the need of rest. Perhaps there are more of us in need of rest than of exercise. Children require a great deal of rest, freedom from activity, and long hours of sleep in order that they may grow and develop healthy minds in healthy bodies. The adult needs rest in order to repair the wear and tear of daily life, and to prepare for the days ahead. A quantity of our activities are without any particular interest to us. They are largely a matter of doing something, an evidence of our inability to be still, and to enjoy ourselves quietly and restfully in relaxation.

We must realize that the possibilities of health depend in large measure upon ourselves. If we would have health, we must be prepared to make the necessary effort to secure the exercise we need and to establish habits of living which permit of sufficient rest and sleep. Neglect means less health if not actual disease; it means living our lives below the standard which we are capable of attaining. It means more worry and less happiness. Health is the worst effort but we must make the effort ourselves.
